Optimize Capital Markets is a full-service Investment Bank that differs from a typical bank in that they provide corporate clients instant access to an Institutional Crowdfunding Marketplace, where they connect institutional and accredited investors directly with businesses seeking either debt or equity financing. EWS believes that exposing our Company and investment opportunity to the over 50,000+ of institutions, financial advisors and accredited investors this medium reaches will result in a successful financing and constitute a significant milestone for the Company.

Company CEO Kevin Hull said that "Emergent Waste Solutions is convinced that Optimize Capital Markets has the ability to reach out to investors who aim to combine profitable investing with making a social/environmental contribution. Further, Emergent believes that Optimize is able to present our business case in both an effective and timely fashion."

About Optimize Capital Markets

Optimize Capital Markets is leading the next generation of Investment Banking Firms through its Institutional Corporate Finance Team coupled with its Institutional Crowdfunding Marketplace. They focus on both private and public entities that need additional capital to maximize their business activities.

About Emergent Waste Solutions

Emergent Waste Solutions (EWS) is a Vancouver Canada based company that is commercializing proprietary and patent pending APS pyrolysis technology, which provides a breakthrough solution for the global challenge of waste disposal. Pyrolysis is a well established process and APS technology leads the market with quality manufactured products from a wide variety of feedstocks. EWS' technology offers a paradigm shift; waste can now be viewed as an economically valuable natural resource that can be processed without creating measurable pollution, can help offset fossil fuel use and can help mitigate global climate change.
